Dr. E. L. Hill, of Athens, Ga., Nominates Successful Candidate - Alabama Presbytery Divided.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Charles R. Erdman, Princeton, N. J., elected moderator of the general as sembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America here today, pledged to restore harmony in the church by "penceful methods."

On what his supporters claim was a direct issue raised by the modernst-fundamentalist controversy. Dr. Erdman defeated Dr. Lapsley A. Mc-Afee, of Berkeley, Cal., who had been backed by the militant fundamentalists. His election came on the secon ballot, the vote being: Erdman 470, McAfee 420. Dr. Harry C. Rogers, of Kansas City, also an Erdman conservative, received 16 votes. They were the only three candidates, the name of Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of Ohio State University, Columbus. Ohio, whom William Jennings Bryan had anounced he would support, being pub!

New York, Max 21 .- One of the why Jack Dunstan, famon Sixth avenue restaurateur, has clos up shop is that people do not eat as they did in days gone by. Ten, twenty years ago, ah, ten or twenty course dinners were not unusual. Nowadays the world seems to have gone on a diet. People eat less, but they are not any the happier for it, says Jack. They sit and dawdle over a miserable wo or three dishes.

That may be true, but they will eatch up with the twenty and tencourse diners in duc time, because they'll live longer.

. While the police parade on the avenue was being formed a girl on the tenth floor of a building climbed in the window and hung her legs over the ledge. There was a murmur among the stalled battalions of cops and bundreds of heads were turned upward.

The young fady felt perfectly nt ease and even nodded her head when one red-headed 6 1-2-foot cop with a brogue of "Oireland" in his voice called out: "Say, missie, your boss doesn't want an office boy up in that place, does

"There are no great differences dividing us in this assembly." Dr. Erdman said. "We are one great body in Christ, one great court of our living God. There is no one here who is not loyal to the Presbyterian faith and all that it carries with it. I ask

Cour Point-Four Beer Proves OPINIONS DIFFER REGARDING "KICK"

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Windsor, Ont., May 21.—"It ain't got no kick." "Oh. boy, just like the old days." "I am going back to Detroit, where I can get some real beer." These were some of the conflicting remarks heard in the hotels and inashere today where Ontario's four-point-four went on sale to a mixed crowd of thirsty and curious Candians and Americans.

In the words of one member of the drinking fraternity who had spent the dry "sampling" Ontario's new brew, "The stuff ain't aged long enough. I have been drinking it all day and there ain't no kick in it."

Others were incflued to be more optimistic. "Give it time to age," said one Detroiter, who had just managed to empty three bottles of the brown foaming liquid, "and you'll have a real drink."

Late—this afternoon the ferrier which had moved scarcely more than an average number of jassengers during the day began to dump hundreds of egger Americaus upon the Canadian shore. Looney J. Fletcher, formerly deputy warden of the Atlanta Federal penitentiary, and Father Thomas P. Hayden, former Catholic chaplain of the institution, will go on trial in federal district court here June 22 on charges of conspiring to accept bribes, it was announced Thursday from the district attorney's office.

Judge Robert T. Erwin, of the southern district of Alabama, who presided at the trial of Fletcher, Albert E. Sartain, former warden, and Laurence Riehl on similar charges, will preside. Fletcher was freed a the former trial, which took place the early part of this year, but Sartain and Riehl were convicted. Sartain getting 18 months and Riehl a year-and-a-day.

The indictment on which Fletcher and Father Hayden will face the court in June charges defendants with a conspiracy to accept bribes from wealthy inmates of the federal institution for which they were to give bribers "easy" jobs and soft assignments while they served at the prison.

signments while they served at the prison.

The specific charge is that Father Hayden received $5,000 from Emanuel Kessler and Morris Sweetwood, for which prisoners were to be given "special privileges." This was not charged in the trial of Fletcher the first time. The government claims Hayden got the money and divided it with Fletcher.

Fletcher denies the allegations but Hayden told the jury that he received $2,100 as his part of a $10,500 deal made with seven members of the Savannah bootleg ring. He was mentioned in the indictment at the former trial but he was not indicted.

Father Hayden is held under $1.500 bond, while Fletcher is under $5,000 bond.

HOLDER DECISION

JOYFULLY RECEIVED Jefferson, Ga., May 21.—(Special.)—The decision of supreme court of Georgia today sustaining John Holder's contentions in the state highway controversy was joyfully received here.

News carrying the decision was eceived at 3 o'clock in messages from Atlanta and immediately the news was made known to the entire town by the blowing of whistles, dismissing school and imme diate gathering of the business people of the town and adjacent territory and extended congratu lations to Mr. Holder.

SILENCE GREETS HOLDER VICTORY

Complete Victory.

The decision upheld the contention of Mr. Holder in every detail, overruling Judge Malcolm D. Jones, of Bibb superior court, before whom the case was argued, in his action in dismissing the Holder mandamus petition to compel the other members of the beard to recognize him as chairthe board to recognize him as chairman. It sustained Judge Jones in striking that portion of the defendant's answer to the petition which purported to allege cause for removal of Mr. Holder from office. On this point the decision reads:

point the decision reads:
"In the light of what has already been said, the judge did not err in striking the defendants' answer. As the governor did not have any power to remove the plaintiff from office, it would be irrelevant whether or not there was cause for his removal by some competent authority authorized by the constitution and laws of the state to deal with the subject."

Governor Powerless. After stating that a mandamus petition to compel the remaining members of the board to recognize Holder as chairman was the proper legal course, the supreme court decision reads:
"The governor of this state has no inherent power to remove a public officer and he can only do so where the power is expressly given, or arise by necessary implication under the constitution or the statutes of the state, and where the constitution or statute authorizes appointment by the governor without any fixed tenure of office, the appointment is at the will of the governor and may be revoked at his pleasure. But where the ap-pointment is by the governor under a statute which provides a fixed term for the office, the governor has not the power of removal of an officer during the term for which he was ap-pointed."

Passing upon the question as to whether the office of chairman state highway board, as created by the legislature, is for a fixed tenure

It is not considered likely that the decision of Thursday will affect the legality of the acts of the two members sitting as the board during the period while the Holder case has been in the courts, and during which Mr. Holder has not been present at meetings of the board.

The attorney-general, some weeky ago, held that vouchers and other documents signed by both Mr. Ben net and Mr. Anderson, as members of the board, would be legal documents, in that they were approved by a majority of the board irrespective of the status of Mr. Holder or the chairmanship. He said, however, that the board was without authority to appoint a vice chairman, with the for murder in Columbus.

Curry was then seen by a newspaperman and he issued a brief statement to him. He said he did not feel that he had been given a fair trial. He declared the jurors, swearing impartiality, had their minds made up when they sat in the jury box. He further stated that the presiding judge had not been entirely fair. He made brief reference to the crime, stating he was forced to kill Phillips in self-defense.

Before the hop-off Captain Amundsen issued the following statement:

The take-off was a gorgeous sight.

The take-off was a gorgeous sight, epitomizing power and strength and infallibility. The wind from the propeller blades swirled the loose snow high into the air, forming a white cloud that stung the faces of the spectators and partially obscured the flying boats as they took the air.

For many minutes the ice floor of For many minutes the ice floor of For many minutes the ice floor of the big harbor vibrated with the force of the take-off. The powerful thrum of the engines reverberated from beneath our feet with a deep, hollow, roar—many congealed pockets or neath the ice acting as sounding boards for the triumphant sound of more than a 1000 heaveness and boards for the triumphant sound of more than a 1,000 horsepower suddenly let loose. As the machines rose in the air, the sound changed to a new note, smooth and pure as that of the Vox Humana on a great organ. The planes, as they moved into the distance, silhouetted themselves against the white snow of the mountainsides. Then, rising rapidly higher, they rose above the rim of hills and became smaller spots against the blue sky between distant peaks, finally the spots faded into the blue.

Additional Lead,

Both planes carried more petrol than originally planned, but despite this additional load, they started in the finest possible form. Their speed was surprisingly high, and both machines were out of sight in seven minutes.

To the spectators below, it was evident that the motors were working flawlessly. Unless something unforeseen occurs, their could be no doubt that the flight would continue direct to the pole.

The gasoline carried by the planes is sufficient for a flight of 1,560 miles, or about 180 miles more than the round-trip distance to the pole.

The official corrected times for the start were as follows: Amundsen, N-25, 5:10 p. m.; Ellsworth, N-24, 5:14 p. m.

Thanksgiving for Rain. In the long, dry season—now happily ended—the Albany Herald cays that "farmers, merchants, b.nkers, builders, professional men and tradesmen, prayed for rain that would save men, prayed for rain that would save the crops and such prosperity as is lependent upon them," and now— "The rains have come—widespread, copious, freshening, soaking rains— and today the fields smile and the orchards are wondrously refreshed. It is rain worth tens of millions of dollars to agricultural and horticul-tural interests of this region. It has lifted worry from tens of thousands of anxious hearts and banished care from just as many faces. from just as many faces.

LEAKS.

The most disastrous things in all business are the leaks. A magnificent business may dwindle to nothing i leaks appear and are not stopped. And an otherwise fine characte may be emaciated through its leaks. The little carelessnesses of discour tesy, unkindness, thoughtlessness, and shiftlessness go further than one thinks.

You look some men in the face and see their manhood actually leaking from their face! We trust people largely from first impressions. You look into the eyes of some men and you see an overflow there-of honest strength, wholeheartedness, These things should be consid. and cleanliness of mind. But nothing that is leaking away.

The shrewd physician looks for the leaks the first thing. If the patient won't tell him he finds out by investigation. He examines the heart, the lungs and other parts of the makeup of his patient. In examining a business the profit

In examining a business the profits are secondary to its leaks. For no profits will long withstand leaks.

The packing industry kept at it until they eliminated every loss in the by-products until they now say that they utilize everything but the "squeal" of the porker! And maybe some bright mind will make use of that some of these days.

The time will probably be here when most of the wires used in communication will be done away with. Simplification always does away with leaks in business and I believe that this rule may apply to life itself. If we make it simpler we are less liable to make a hard job of it. And thus we are fortified against much that we lose in leaks from complica-

WORLD'S WINDOW

TITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY, MAY 22, 192

The German monarchists are frankly disappointed in Hindenburg. Here the man has been president for two weeks and still he has not repudiated the republic and sent the invitation to the kaiser to come back. But the old marshal is a man of cool and quiet reasoning. During the war when the greatest battles of history were being fought and the allies battered against his front in a dozen places, the old man never lost his head. Still it must not be thought that Herr von Hindenburg has suddenly become a convert to republicanism. He has sworn allegiance to the republic's constitution, but he was the candidate of the junkers and the monarchists and he still signs himself "your majesty, most devoted and faithful servant."

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN object of the chatterer's visit; to hear if William knew anything. The conversation became more serious and turned on the subject of The Netherlands. All at once William of Orange said to his visitor: "Monsieur, can you keep a secret?" The diplomat rubbed his hands eagerly while bowing his assent: "Upon the holy cross, I swear that I can keep a secret, prince." "Well," came the dry and laconic answer. "so can I."

Tobenkin says that the Russians, sing and peasant, since the days of durik lave been the victims of brooding mysticism. The peasants and their rengious fervor are even said to alarmathe government. It remains a matter of doubt whether the Russian peasant is any different from his German or Flemish colleague in psychology and deep religious teeling. If they go on long religious pilgrimages in Russin they do the same in Flanders only in the former country the distances are longer. Certain times of the year the roads are crowded with processions to this or that holy spot or to see this or that holy man or woman. Seldom, however, are the peasants imbued with the fervent desire to pray or take part in the ritual without the hope of some material benefit accruing from such acts. Instead of mysticism its the hope of reward that makes them go on the hikes to worship at shrines and ikons. Trotsky in his new book says that there is no alarm over the older people still practicing their religious observances, but that the younger generation is oasting the artistic lithographs that come from Moscow, depicting life, its sorrows and struggles and joys, right over the top of the old ikons. The Russian government is attempting something of which the results will astonish a coming generation. It is trying to stamp out religion. It does Tobenkin says that the Rus astonish a coming generation. It is trying to stamp out religion. It does not employ force or persecution any longer. The Silent.

A New York divine speaking of the characteristics of William, Prince of Orange, surnamed the Silent, describes him as a "gloomy taciturn and morose figure. almost struck dumb by the suifferings of his people." There is no evidence in the "archives de la Mais and d'Orange" or in Dutch history that this is an accurate picture of the great liberal of the sixteenth century. He was rather known to be 'jovial, affable and witty" even from the times that he was a page at the court of Charles V. His surname, the Silent, was not given him on account of any tendency to morose tactiturnity, but has to do with a historical incident, when the latter told him while hunting of a plan of France and Spain to combine against the Netherlands. The French king never suspected that William listened to the details of the big plot and kept his counsel. Later the king of Spain. William listened to the details of the big plot and kept his counsel. Later the king of Spain suspected that William of Orange, knew something of his designad for the Netherlands. He sent out one of his trusted ministers, who engaged the Prince in "a lively chatter." Soon William became aware of the Mors.

HEALTH TALKS BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

TUBERCULOSIS ARTHRITIS. In a thousand cases of chronic arthritis (joint inflammation) caused y infection of the bones and cher joint structures by the tuberculosis bacillus, receiving treatment in the Hospital for Ruptured and Crippled, New York, the joints affected are as follows: Spine, 375 cases; hip, 340 cases; knee, 215 cases; ankle or small bones of the foot, 45 cases; elbow, 12 cases: wrist, nine cases; shoulder, four cases.

Tuberculosis of the spine, which appears to be the most frequent of joint or bone tuberculosis, affects both the joints between the bones (vertebrae) and the bodies of the vertebrae. It is commonly called Pott's has tho existence since Henry possibilities and an insistent demand is being created to put Georgia to the forefront—the place where it belongs of a thousand changes.

It has shown visitors a south immersed in new enterprises, from the oil wells of Smackover to the realty offices of Miami. It has shown them a Terms which now stands first among all the agricultural states. It has shown them a North Carolina with more than 7,000 miles of improvement of the possibilities and an insistent demand is being created to put Georgia to the forefront—the place where it belongs. The bankers of Georgia are looking into new propositions and taking new viewpoints on matters of local and soil wells of Smackover to the realty of the possibilities of the particularly to a shown them a North Carolina with more than 7,000 miles of improvement of the possibilities of the particular incomplete in the community at interest, where the banks are investigating and backing arthritis or any other form of tuber-culosis, to the intelligent mind.

The deformity popularly known a "hunchback" is in most cases the result of tuberculosis of the spine in an editorial commenting on the lor-ward movement of that organization. In an address before that body Hon. Eugene R. Black, president of the Atlanta Trust company, told some mighty convincing things, and his speech has been widely heralded as a speech has been widely heralded as a confidence childhood, but this is generally pre the disease is most prevalent among the unenlightened portion of the population and parents of limited in telligence will deliberately conceal such ailments from medical attention because they imagine it is disgraceful to have a cripple in the family, or something like that. This is a regret-table effect of the cruel popular cus-tom of looking upon the physically handicapped individual as inferior. In fact the majority of such crippled children and holuts are of superior intelligence and the world owes much intelligence, and the world owes muc to the contributions of physically handicapped individuals.

It would probably do more harm than good to attempt to describe the handicapped individuals.

It would probably do more hagm than good to attempt to describe the development and course of tubercuiosis of the spine here, for nearly every mother whose young one complains now and then of bellyache or sideache would wonder if the child is getting Pott's disease. When a child habitually assumes the prone posture (lying on his stomach) in sleep and shows a constant desire to rest across a chair or mother's lap (to take weight off the spine) and seems abnormally careful about avoiding jars when getting into or out of bed or in standing up from a sitting position, then it would be wise to have the physician examine the child.

Pott's disease (tuberculosis of the spine) generally passes through three stages. First, the stage of referred pains (such as bellyache and sideache frequently recurring and such postural habits as mentioned in the preceding paragraph. Second, rigidity of the region of the spine involved, a natural protective effort of the muscles; this is manifest to the parent's observation in the stiffness and awkwardness of certain movements or in the child's abnormal caution and care to avoid fars or active efforts, but the physician observes the muscle spass even when the parent has noticed nothing of the sort. Third, the stage of deformity, usually what the physician calls kyphosis, a backward hump, hunchback. Each of these stages lasts many months, as a rule, and merges gradually into the succeeding stage.

Suitable provision for rest of the spine, by means of braces, plaster of Paris jackets or other appliances, as suggested by the spasmodic protective effort of the muscles, must be made. Then probably the best treatment for the disease is the Rollier sunbath treatment, as now employed in many institutions in America.

Recent Lynching MFMRFRS OF SOVE Subject of Jury Charge by Judge

Sylvania, Ga., May 21.—In his charge to the grand jury on the convening of superior court here this week Judge H. B. Strange centered attention on the recent lynching at Rocky Ford, the only occurrence of the kind in Georgia this year, and in a very strong statement charged the grand jury to investigate the case thoroughly.

"I do not condone or palliate in the least the crime the victim of the mob

"I do not condone or palliate in the least the crime the victim of the mob is alleged to have committed." said Judge Strange. "If he was guilty, he deserved the extreme penalty of the law, that of death. But the constitution of the United States and the constitution of Georgia expressly provide that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. Instead of giving the case this direction, the mob disregarded the law and, I understand, burned this party at the stake. As much as case this direction, the mob disregarded the law and, I understand, burned this party at the stake. As much as the victim may have deserved death, every man engaged in that lynching is guilty of murder. They have a stain upon them that will be hard to eradicate."

Judge Strange embodied in his charge a striking story of a relative who as a boy he beard make the statement at Springfield camp meeting that God had forgiven him for every sin he had committed except one and that he never expected to be forgiven for that. "I was quite a boy," said Judge Strange. "but I knew what he referred to. He had helped to lynch Brad Jones during the war between the states for buying cotton and other produce from the slaves and because he sympathized with the north. This man was no weakling he was then in his prime and looked every inch a man. But he had made the mistake that a great many men make. He had helped to take a life contrary to man. But he had made the mistake that a great many men make. He had helped to take a life contrary to law and he was suffering the pangs of his acts. What will these men do when fhey have to stand before the Judge of all the carth? There will be a secure there. You may account the Judge of all the carth? There will be no escape, there. You may escape an earthly judge, but then we shall see Him face to face and we shall know as we are known. You as grand jurors investigate this matter and relieve your own consciences as this conc thas done." The charge made a profound impression and the result of the grand jury's investigation is awaited with Judge Strange has been greatly praised for his courageous stand in this matter and in his endeavor to eliminate lynching is backed by the leading people of this section.

CABINET REELECTED JURIST SUCCUMBS

News was received in Atlanta Thursday of the death of Mrs. Mary Norcott Bryan, well-known author and mother of Judge Shepard Bryan, of this city, who died at her residence in New Bern, N. C., Wednesday night. She was the widow of the late Judge Henry R. Bryan, prominent judge of that district.

Mrs. Bryan was prominently known throughout the state. She was a native of Pitt county, an active member of the Christ Episcopal church and was known for her marked interest in social religious and benevolent affairs. She had written several books reminiscent of the southland. She is survived by five daughters. Mrs. H. O. London of Charlotte. Mrs. John B. Browfoot of Black Mountain, Mrs. Edwin H. Jordan of Raleigh, and Mrs. F. S. Duffy and Miss Margaret Bryan, of New Bern, N. C.; three sons, Judge Shepard Bryan of Atlanta, F. C. Bryan, of Milwauk'se, Wis., and Henry R. Bryan of New Bern, and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Funcral arrangements had not been completed late Thursday night.

STILL DENY CRIME

Newnan, Ga., May 21 .- (Special.) Local officers and postoffice inspectors continued their grilling here today of Ora Whittle, 250 and Oscar Dutton, 39, of Fayette county, held in Coweta county jail, in connection with the killing of James Langston, Campbell county rural mail carrier.

predicts further arrests in the case, and states that even if the men held do not confess, it is thought enough evidence to convict them of the crime is already in hand.

Whittle and Dutton strongly denied any implication in the tragedy. They have been subjected to severe questioned since their arrest Tuesday. Whittle denied being even in the community the day of the murder, declaring he had harnessed his mule early in the morning of the murder and had driven to College Park.

From College Park he said he boarded a street car for Atlanta and filled a business engagement with a man on Peters street. He was unable to give the name of the man. He returned to his home about 7 or 8 o'clock that night, he said, and was told of the murder by a country peddler whom he passed on the road. His home, he said, was about four miles from the secluded spot in a swamp where Langston's body was found by a negress.

The two suspects have been asked to affirm or deny statements made by a number of witnesses which linked the two men with the slaying and brought about their arrest. Names of the witnesses are being withheld. PIPGRAS AGAIN BEATS CRACKERS FOR NASHVILLE

Niehoff's Former Pitcher Whiffs Six Atlanta Men As He Scores 4-to-2 Win

If George Pipgras, property of the Yanks and erstwhile Cracker, has way, the Crackers won't even finish in first division, much less in striking distance of the pennant. He lost games for the Crackers while he was here and now he has been the cause of Atlanta's dropping a couple of games since he was released to the Vols last week. The loss yesterday was 4 to 2, with Pipgras on the mound for the winners.

The biggest surprise of his performance yesterday to Atlanta fans was the fact that he did not issue a single base an balls during nine full innings.

Taking advantage of his knowledge of weaknesses of Atlanta batsmen, he struck out seven men, and to top it all off, he tripled to the scoreboard in the ninth inning just for spite.

Of course Pipgras was pitching his heart out, as he will do every time he faces the Crackers this year, which is the natural attitude of the rebellious spirit of every castoff performing against the club that has branded him not good enough to stick.

him not good enough to stick.

Jack Slappey started for the locals and sailed comfortably through the first five innings, during which time good pitching and phenomenal field-ing by his mates held the Vols scorewhile the Crackers scored one in second and one in the first. Autrey Hits Best.

Autrey, another Volunteer who forscoring two runs, out of four trips the platter. The best man in a Cracker uniform yesterday—still wearing one— was Robert Owen Dewitt Murphy, the crack first baseman. He played first base a while, right field a while, and got three neat singles out of four times at bat. It is also recorded that Murphy ran his stolen base record up considerably yesterday. Twice he pilfered second in a right sprightly manner and was cautioned once about stealing Dan Pfeninger's shirt.

stealing Dan Pfeninger's shirt.

Another serious blow to Cracker aspirations vesterday was the injury suffered by Nick Cullop, c.nter fielder, who is leading the league in circuit clouts. When Autrey doubled to center in the sixth, Nick dashed in and, in a desperate effort to make a shoe-string eatch of the liner, fell and slid several feet. The ball hit the tip end of the forefinger on his right hand, knocking off the nail and lacerating the end of the finger. It was not known last night whether the injury will keep him out of the the injury will keep him out of the rest of the Vol series or not.

Slappey Relieved. Slappey Relieved.

The retirement of Cullop made necessary a general shake-up in the Cracker line-up. Jenkins went in to catch, Brock moved to first, Murphy shifted to right and Wilbur Good went over to take up Cullop's job in the center of the garden.

Despite Slappey's brilliant start, he began to falter towards the closing stages and went out when Bagby went in to pinch-hit for him in the eighth. Bagby, by the way, laid down a perfect sacrifice.

The Scoring.

The first scoring of the day occurred in the second frame when Smith singled and took third on Pipgras' wild throw in an effort to catch him at first. He scored on a single to left by Murphy.

The second and final Cracker tally was scored in the fifth. Murphy singled past first and took third on an error by Strohm, to score on Ga-error by Strohm, to score on Gazella's grounder to short.

The Vols were scoreless during the first four innings and marked up one

The next one was made possible by Eichrodt, who singled, stole second and scored on Autrey's single. The eighth-inning run was the result of two consecutive hits through the nitcher's box that fast fielding the pitcher's box that fast fielding would have prevented. The bingles were off the bats of Davis and Strohm, the former scoring on Mackey's single to left. The last run was Autry's homer into the left-field stands.

Florida House Defeats Charter Amendment Bill

Tallahassee, Fla., May 21 .- An Tallahassee, Fla., May 21.—An amendment to the corporation charter measure passed by the senate last week, to require publication in newspapers of notice of application for charters, was defeated by the house today soon after consideration of the bill was taken up. The amendment effered by Representative Davis, of Leon. was opposed by McCall of Hamilton and others on the ground that it was unfair to place an expense on corporations, and that it would help nobody but the newspapers.

The measure carried a recommentation by Governor Martin in his list message to the Florida legislations and senate committee on the evernor's message.

Mrs. Mary A. Johnson, 73, died Thursday afternoon at the residence, that it was unfair to place an expense on corporations, and that it would help nobody but the newspapers.

Prior to taking up the corporation bill, the house received the general appropriation bill from the senate, the latter body having passed the latter body having passed the latter body having passed the mediatre yesterday. Five hundred sopies of it were ordered printed for listribution among house members.

As finally adopted by the house the bill, patterned after the Seward law, carries a penalty of from one to five rears imprisonment for violations, it now goes back to the upper house for concurrence in the amendments.

The measure carried a recommentation of the prior of the properties of the prope

FROM CYCLONE WRECK

De Soto, Ill., May 20.—Blown over and practically destroyed by the cy-clone which struck southern Illinois March 18, De Soto is now making a "come back."

De Soto was the worst wrecked of all the cities and villages in the txist-er's trail. It was so badly wrecked that for a time abandonment of the that for a time anandomment of the town was contemplated.

Reconstruction work, guided by many of the disaster victims, has been begun, and indications are that De Soto will emerge larger than before the cyclone.

At present 22 new houses are under construction and more area to act der construction and more are to get under way this summer.

The business district, which practically was leveled, has been rebuilt and many of the business houses are operating again.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY, MAY 22, 1928.

Chicago, May 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Reports that all through the western part of Kansas the wheat crop shows decided improvement, and that present conditions indicate a yield above the average led to much selling out and to lower prices in the wheat market today. Wheat closed weak, 1 1-4 to 2c net lower, May 167 3-4 and July 153 1-4 to 153 3-8, with corn unchanged to 1 1-4 off, oats 1-4 to 3-8 and 1-2c down and provisions showing 7 to 15c advance.

At first the wheat market had an upward trend, but a majority of traders took to the selling side after a widely known expert was given as authority for predictions that much of western Kansas would yield 30 bushels of wheat to the acre. A forecast of cloudy weather and lower temperatures, with prospects of rain in the dry districts northwest, acted further to disturb confidence on the part of holders of wheat and to promote sale- for the purpose of realizing profits. The fact that export buying was slow, and that only 200.000 bushels could be confirmed as having been purchased today for shipment to Europe, had a still further depressing influence. to Europe, had a still further deto Europe, had a still further depressing influence.

Virtually the lowest prices of the day were current at the close in the wheat market. Rallies which took place failed to hold in the face of increased selling pressure from holders ho wanted profits. A contributing reason for the pressure to sell was current gossip that receipts here would continue liberal for some time, inasmuch as there has been a good deal of additional wheat engaged to come to Chicago from other large markets. On the other land, shipments from here have dropped off in decided contrast.

Prospects of larger arrivals of corphere weakened that market. Oats were easier owing to sympathy with corn.

Now in Good Demand Railroad Bonds Strongest Averages Show How They Have Led

Bond prices have lately soared to new 1925 high levels and in many ways recent weeks have proven very progressive, advances in individual issues ranging from 1 to 10 points. The investment buying public, encouraged by easy money rates, has shown a keen demand for high-grade securities.

In the above chart is shown the trend of the Dow-Jones averages. Railroad bonds have shown greater strength than any other type, especially during the present year, which seems to have developed a slight weak, ness in public utility issues, according to the Dow-Jones figures. Standard Statistics company estimates of the average yield on 15 high-grade utility issues, however, show a decline which is equivalent to a rise in the market price. The combined index of 40 bonds, as shown above, does not indicate that the highest level of this year has been reached, but other indices compiled upon a weekly basis

New Orleans. May 21.—(A. V. Curran & Co., correspondents.)—The weather bureau reported practically no rain in the cotton region over night which was considered favorable for nearly all districts of the belt except south Texas, where moisture is urgently needed.

Advices from south Texas are to effect that planting and germination is being retarded for want of moisture and that young cotton in some sections is dying for the want of rain.

On the other hand crop reports from almost all other sections of the cotton region are generally favorable with planting negring completion.

New York, May 21—(By the Associated Press.)—Bond prices worked into new high ground today, the combined average of representative issues in all classes standing at the highest figure in several years. The upward movement proceeded today under new lenders, among which oil company issues more worked throughout the list.

Advancing crude oil prices, reports of heavy inroads made into gasoline stocks and an increase in the Pacific Oil company's dividend rate contributed to the strength of the personal bonds, which kept abreast of a rise in these stocks. Few cities in the country possess a restly company with the record made by the Adair organization. Its scope is now nation-wide, and it operates offices in some of the largest cities in the country. The firm was established in 1865 just following the war between the states by Colonel George W. Adair, father of Forrest Adair, present president, and the late. George Adair. Members of the Adair family have directed affairs of the company since it was founded.

When first established in 1865, the firm was known as the George W. Adair company. Later this was succeeded by George W. Adair & Sons. Next it became Forrest and George Adair and was operated for many years under this name until the formation of the Adair Realty and Trust

WHITE ARMS.

Sleeves on the smartest summer frocks run to two extremes, they are either so long they half cover the hand, or they are practically non-existent. The girl who has pretty arms will no doubt want to show them as nuch as possible while fash-ion still says she may. But if she does she must remember that bare arms will sunburn, and that sunburned arms though pretty enough on the beach, or at an afternoon party, are ugly and out of place when in evening dress.

So though she will expose her arms to the summer sun she must not allow them to be sunburned. I think she will find some of these suggestions valuable. First of all, rub the arms at nubturn, as these colors do not person which is the best way of rubbing it into the skin. This will help a great deal in protecting the skin against sunburn. Second, carry a parasol with a dark lining if you can, or if you are the athletic sort of girl that hates bothering with these sign, are still very smart,

PRINCIPLES

We know a great deal about what the Vitamins do. But nobody has ever seen a Vitamin. Nobody even knows why the Vitamins are so essential to human nutrition and health.

In the words of J. Arthur Thomson: Vitamins are "something whose presence means life whose absence means disease or death."

We do know that Vitamin A promotes growth. More than that without enough Vitamin A in its food, a child cannot grow properly.

We know, too, that Vitamins were discovered during the World War, just in time to save thousands of cases of malnutrition among the men on the other side.

And as research broadens and deepens, we can see our way to some very wonderful future discoveries.

The Nucoa producers alone have spent a great amount of money on Vitamin research—and will keep up the research for years to come.

Nucoa contains the precious Vitamin A in abundance. Withfout this Vitamin the human body cannot grow. And the amount of Vitamin varies less in Nucoa than any other similar product.

And there are other reasons besides Vitamins that are making American housewives such partisans of Nucoa-sanitation with every modern appli-ance to keep human hands away from it.

PURITY. Nucoa is a vegetable product. It is naturally wholesome. It is refined to the point of delicacy.

3. FLAVOR. Nucoa is not exactly like any thing else in flavor. It is individual and satisfying—and, by the way, so easily digested that hospitals prescribe it in specified cases.

1. CLEANLINESS. Nucoa is produced 4. UNIFORMITY. Nucoa is always the under model conditions of absolute same. In control of every day's prosame. In control of every day's production of this great food is a respon sible expert-a modern scientist on guard. This man, with his Master Standard and a national system of reports, protects the quality of every pound of Nucoa that goes into your ome. It is a personal service to you.

ECONOMY. Nucoa retails everywhere for about 35 cents per pound.

LEGIONNAIRES PLAN

It has often been said that only a woman can understand what nervous women endure. Most cases of nervousness, eleeplessness, mental depression, headaches, backache, fretting and worrying have their origin in some feminine ailment that will readily yield to Lydia E. The bandits," she reminded Terence.

Turning, he saw them coming like mad, their horses on the dead run. He leaped to his saddle, and lifted her on in front of him. They dashed off the bank, in between huge boulders, and picked up a trail. The bandits came on in pursuit, but Terence and Mary had a good lead on them.

The trail, they found, led them past a small, rock-ribbed blind gully, with a narrow entrance. As his eyes took in this place, Terence wheeled his horse and drove into it.

"We can hold them off here," he said, leaping from the saddle, and lifting Mary down.

He drew his gun from its holster, and prepared for the expected attack. The rocks protected them from all sides. All he needed to do was guard the narrow entrance.

"One man can hold this place against an army," he said. "We are in luck."

They did not have to wait long for the bandits to catch up to them. Two of them at once attempted to break through the entrance to the gully, but shots from Terence's revolver sent them fleeing back.

"Look out there, boys," cried Buck, the leader. "He'll get you there."

He signalled them together. The four conferred.

"We've gut 'em holed up in a trap," said Buck. "We'll keep 'em holed up until they're ready to come out peaceable."

Then came a desperate moment when Terence lookd grimly at Mary, and whispered tensely:

As she looked at him, grasping the significance of his words, both their eyes filling with love at this moment of their extreme peril together, a new horror suddenly transfixed her. From above them had dropped the noose of a lariat, encircling Terence, and quickly drawn back so that it caught him under the armpits. Struggling to free himself, he was lifted from his feet and slowly drawn up the mountainside.

While 's eyes glanced furtively to the topax charm, and he smiled queerly to himself. Both men grinned, "I want you to come along with me, Doc," Taggart added, "but not to attempt to the ranch and prepare for my visitors," he said. Both men grinned, "I want you to come along with me, Doc," Taggart added, "but not to with the boys, and be ready to help when you're called."

The two men then left the bar, mounted their horses, and galloped off.

"And this is poor daddy's ranch."

Marshall took Mary into his arms again.

But what brought you here, daddy?' she asked. "I don't know what would have happened if you had not arrived just when you did."

It was three puffs of smoke, "replied Marshall. "We have Komi to the astop, directly into the water he reservoir.

Three puffs—I saw it curling up in the air. I knew the signal. It was repeated again and again. Good old Komi. We rode to the render-yous. On the way we picked up Miquel, returning to tell us what had happened when you were attacked at the springs. Komi was waiting at his fire, and led us here.

All turned to the old Indian chief. "Komi, he watch," mumbled the chief. "Komi, he knows his friends, he help them. Komi knows too his enemies—they beware Komi if they mare wise."

CHAPTER 10.

Burning Lips.

"I'm needing a new foreman at the ranch, O'Rourke. Will you help us out?"

Terence looked at Mary. The smile on her lips seemed to say. "Please asy yes." He turned back to her father, and answered, "I'll be glad to, sir."

And so it was arranged that Terence should accompany Mary to Latigo to bank the money for the purchase of the 2.000 feeders needed on the ranch, and then go with her to the ranch with the balance of the money to pay off the men.

Mary kissed her father good-by affectionately, and Terence and he again shook hands. Then the lovers started off on their errand, Marshall, having given up his horse to his daughter, mounted double with Miquel, and, Bud following, started back toward Paradise Canyon. Komi vanished into his hills.

The phone in the Pico bar rang.

The phone in the Pico bar rang.
Topaz Taggart and Doc Willets were still sitting at their table awaiting the outcome of their scheme.
"Mr. Taggart," the bartender called.

Taggart grabbed the receiver with excitement. A fierce scowl crossed his face as he heard Buck McLeod's his face as he heard Buck McLeod's voice reporting:

"A bird named O'Rourke mixed in and spoiled the play. He and the gal are heading for Latigo to bank the coin. Then they're going to the ranch."

Taggart roared an oath. Then after a moment's thought he commanded into the telephone,

"Well, get your boys together, Buck, and come up to the ranch—secretly. I'll have more work for you to do."

Taggart returned to his table.

"Marshall's girf got through," he snarled. "She's banking the money in Latigo, and then coming up to the ranch. Some bird named O'Rourke is with her."

Dock Willets whistled meditatively.

"Now this Marshall girl mustn't get wise that we framed to have her lose the money." Taggart went on. "I don't want Marshall to know I'm double-crossing him until it's too late."

Willets nodded, then asked, with a no until they're ready to come out peaceable."

They grinned, dismounted, tied their horses, rolled cigarettes, and prepared for an easy siege.

After a short rest Buck got an idea. The bandits put their heads together and listened to him.

From behind their rock barricade, "Losance and Mary peered cautiously," if think they're going to try and rush us." said Terence, grimly, fin sering the trigger of his gun. They remained alert.

Suddenly three of the bandits began to advance steadily firing their guns, the leader placing a hat on a stick and shoving it toward the gully entrance to draw fire. Terence fired back. For several minutes the bullets flew thick and fast.

Terence tried to conserve his ammunition. But he was forced to fire by the bandits who kept stealing up to the entrance, feigning an attempt to rush in.

Then came a desperate moment when Terence lookd grimly at Mary, aned whispered tensely:

"Willets whistled meditatively. "Now this Marshall girl musta' to kave the that we her lose the money." Taggart went on. "I don't want Marshall to know I'm double-crossing him until it's too late."

Willets nodded, then asked, with a leer.

"Look here, Topas, what're you so anxious to get hold of Marshall's land for? You ain't sowled suspiciously at the other man, studying his face trying to read what was behind the question. Finally he forced a grin, and with assumed food nature, replied:

"Ain't telling you all my secrets, Doc. But you help me get that Marshall tranch and maybe I'll wise you up to a little deal I'm aimin' to put through with that fool Injun, Komi."

Willet's eyes glanced furtively to the topaz charm, and he smiled queerly to himself.

Taggart rose.

"Look here, Topas, what're you so anxious to get hold of Marshall's late."

"And this is poor daddy's ranch."
Mary's voice trembled with sad

While the others had been drawing Terence's gun-fire, the fourth bandit, under Buck's instructions, had made a detour around the side of the gully, and climbed up to a ledge overhanging the spot where Terence and Mary's had barricaded themselves. He was a buge strapping, thuscular fellow, this bandit, and once he had caught Terence in his lariat, had no difficulty in hauling him up.

A hard bump, as he was being dragged up, caused Terence to drop his gun, It fell at Mary's feet. Staring at it wild-eyed, she suddenly recovered her presence of mind—snatched it, and taking careful aim, fired upward. The bullet struck the rope, but into it, the strands parted, and Terence dropped back on the ground heside Mary. Mary knelt beside him and raised him up in her arms. He came out of his daze and staggered up dlzzlly.

Watching over the barricade, he saw that the bandits, surprised and angered by the failure of their lariat manueurer, were getting ready to rush them. He gazed at his hands.

"These are all I have to fight with now, dear," he said grimly.

The battle was on almost before they knew it. The three through is down from his ledge above upon Teripoc. Terence caught him with the butt of his revolver and laid him out; then turned his attention to the three at the gap. He caught the leader. Buck, by the throat, and hurled him out on the road.

Mary greeted the man shyly, saying:

"Tm Mary Marshall—aren't you Mr. Taggart, my father's friend?"

"Well, well, well—John Marshall's girl!" Taggart cried with a smile and a gesture of eager welcome. "This is a surprise."

He lifted her from the saddle and placed her on her feet with a show of gallantry that did not arouse any enthusiasm for him in Terence, who also dismounted, and stood waiting.

It Was a Half and Half Proposition With These Quarters

The quarters which Mrs. Walter Bearden, 91 Greenwood avenue, recently advertised for rent in The Constitution classified section consisted of two very desirable furnished rooms for housekeeping.

Right after her ad appeared, Mrs. Bearden had four callers and rented the rooms immediately.

There is nothing particularly strange in this.

Constitution ads find it very easy to furnish twice as many applicants as can be accommodated.

If you want to know this through actual experience, just call MAin 5000 and ask for an ad-taker.

Somerset Terrace An Opportunity to Secure An Elegant Home at a Real Bargain

WE are offering a number of six-room brick dwellings on Somerset Terrace, a new thoroughfare in one of the most elegant sections of Atlanta's beautiful North Side, at prices and upon terms that should not fail to attract the attention of home seekers.

THE materials for these houses were purchased at prices far below the present market, making it possible for us to sell them at genuine bargain prices.

THEY are new, and each house contains every modern convenience and luxury. There are six rooms, a breakfast room, bathroom, attic, large cellar, furnace heat, hardwood floors, beautiful electrical and bathroom fixtures with exquisite interior finish and decorations. Other features that add to the beauty and attractiveness of these homes are side drives, garages and awnings.

SOMERSET TERRACE, upon which these homes are lo-cated, intersects Ponce de Leon and North Avenues one block west of Bonaventure, and these homes are convenient to schools, churches and parks. This is one of the most beautiful neighborhoods in the city. The street was recently paved and new walks and curbing laid in front of these homes.

THE price, $7,850.00, which includes everything, is a real bargain for dwellings of this type. A nominal initial payment will be sufficient to secure a home, the balance in small monthly payments.

WE will be pleased to have you see our representative on the property or call.

Real Estate

WHEN the land booms subside, and wild speculations in real estate ELSEWHERE die down, as they inevitably must; when the life's savings of many an investor have been poured into real estate which NEVER WILL and NEVER CAN bring the purchase price in some other places, Atlanta will still be marching forward to the great big city it is to be.

WHY GO ANYWHERE?

ATLANTA is the greatest City in the South, and one of the greatest in the country. If you don't be-lieve it, take a trip and see!

NOW is a good time to BUY Atlanta real estate. It will never be cheaper. 300,000 people guarantee its present value; we will have 500,000 guarantors before long, and they will come here of their own accord, after mature, business-like calculation. We won't have to give them a Free Ride to get them here. They are already on the way! And they will live here twelve months in the year.

ATLANTA is not a 90-day playground, but an all-the-year-round, hustling, progressive city—of sub-stantial values, steady, rapid growth and a future more magnificent even than its past.

INVEST your money in ATLANTA and be SAFE. We haven't stopped growing since the Civil War and we probably won't stop before the millennium. DON'T BE MISLED by any fairy stories, and green fields afar. They may look a little green now; later on some of them will be a fall brown. Then it will

FATE SATURDAY

Ralph Endley, 23-year-old Fulton county youth, on trigl in Judge Joho D. Humphries' division of Fulton surprior court on a charge of murder, wings out of the fatal stabbing of Fulton surprior court on a charge of murder, wings out of the fatal stabbing of Blix Abernathy on the night at april 23, may not know his fate until late Esturday.

Court house attaches Thursday aftermon predicted that the case will not reach the jury before Saturday aconning. This forecast followed arouncement by C. M. Macon, defense attorney, that between 25 and 30 more defense witnesses will be called including the defendant himself.

The jury was completed shortly fitter noon Thursday, after eight renigemen of the first panel were disqualified on the ground that they are opposed to capital punishment. Becess followed until 2:10 o'clock, when taking of testimony was begrin. The state rested its case at 4:23 o'clock, and the defense began taking settimony.

$7,500 payment for travel-accident death, the policy increasing 10 per cent per year to $10,000 in five years; $2,000 automobile death, the policy increasing 10 per cent per year to $3,000 in five years; $1,000 pedestrian death, the policy increasing 10 per cent per year to $1,500 in five years; large cash sums for permanent injuries, and $10 weekly indemnity, for disability resulting from certain specified accidents.

This great policy is offered through the North American Accident Insurance company of Chicago, the only old line company writing accident insurance exclusively. Its policies are written in this section only through The Constitution.

Don't wait longer to get your protection. Tomorrow may be too vertisement in this issue; then late. Look for the full page adaphone, write or visit The Constitution's insurance department.

And have you ever stopped to think that you yourself may be listed in the next array of dead and maimed in the wake of the wave of tragedies?

Motorist or pedestrian—your life in in danger every minute you are on the public streets and highways; and the sane, reasonable man with an eye to the comfort of those who are dependent upon him will protect himself and his loved ones with insurance against this ever-present hazard.

The Constitution's new and sensational $7.500 Travel Accident insurance policy is the cheapest and most efficient insurance of this kind offered its subscribers by any southern newspaper. FLAMING SWORD SUITS DISSOLVED BY COURT

The receivership and a temporary injunction preventing Colonel William J. Simmons, supreme monarch of the Knights of the Flaming Sword, from changing the status of the proerty of that organization. Thursday was dissolved by order of Judge E. D. Thomas, in Fulton superior court. This action automatically places affairs of the order back in the hands of Colonel Simmons and removes all action pending against the order.

T. O. Tuttle and others, several weeks ago petitioned the court to appoint a permanent receiver of the organization, thus taking management from Colonel Simmons, who is founder and former emperor of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. The petition alleged that the organization was insolvent and that its funds were being misused by Colonel Simmons. These charges were denied. Tuttle claimed the organization was indebted to him. Attorneys Aldine Chambers. Homer Denton and Taylor Smith appeared in behalf of the organization.

MACKIE CONFESSES TO WOMAN'S MURDER

Macon, Ga., May 21.—In an unsuccessful effort to save his playmate, Duke Morris, 11, from drewning, J. R. Hale, 10, plunged into the Ocmulgee river here today. An instant later the younger boy was caught in the death grip of his pal and both went to their death in the stream.

The boys played hookep from a grammar schol this morning and with five others went to the river, a half mile above the water works pumping station, to swim.

When the two boys went down the others became frightened and ran from the scene. They reported the double drowning, however, and three hours later the bodies were recovered.

The boys lived in the Willingham cotton mill village. Magnolia, Miss., May 21.—George Mackie, who is to be hanged at noon for the murder of Mrs. Will Bolian, for the murder of Mrs. Will Bolian, widowed mother of eight children, and Harry Tarver, World War veteran. near Summit, last August, late tonight, in a signed statement of several thousands words, confessed that he intentionally shot Tarver. Mackie holds steadfast to his previous claims that the shooting of Mrs. Bolian and Fannie Bolian, 14-year-old daughter, was accidental. Fannie was made an invalid for life.
